Welcome to Bochum – in the Heart of the Ruhr Area
1.1 The “Ruhrgebiet”

The “Ruhrgebiet” (Ruhr Area) is an urban region in the west of the Federal Republic of Germany. A total of 53 towns and municipalities combine to form a unique, seamless metropolitan area that has the feel of a single town.

The Ruhr Area is not a natural region but an economic one that owes its cohesion first and foremost to its history as the largest industrial mining region in Europe. It stretches from Hamm in the northeast and Wesel in the northwest as far as Duisburg in the southwest and Hagen in the southeast. As such, the Ruhr Area covers an area of 4,435 square kilometres, roughly 13% of the total area of Nordrhein-Westfalen.

Just 200 years ago, the Ruhr Area was a thinly-populated rural region, but with the advent of industrialisation its rich reserves of coal soon turned it into the most important coal mining and steel region in Europe. Within a few decades, several hundred collieries had evolved and the population exploded. The heyday of the mining industry lasted from the 19th to the mid 20th centuries. Altogether, some 3,200 collieries and numerous coke ovens, ironworks and steelworks grew up, employing up to a million people.
The undiscovered metropolis

Hardly anywhere in Central Europe has changed as much over the last few decades as the Ruhr Area. In the second half of the 20th century, a period of structural change meant that most of the collieries and iron- and steelworks in the region shut down, throwing the region into serious crisis. Since then, the Ruhr Area has not only been fighting for its economic future but also for its regional cohesion. Despite this, the Ruhr Area with its 5.3 million inhabitants from 150 different countries is still the largest economic region in Europe and one of the most important centres of education, science and research. In place of yesterday’s mines, today’s service industries and educational establishments have found a home here. Technology, trade and the service industries are the economic sectors of the future.

The Ruhr Area has been a conurbation and industrial landscape for 200 years – now it is developing into a metropolis. Nowhere in Europe can you marvel at so many old buildings or gaze at so many new ones, and nowhere are they so closely knit.

The Ruhr Area is reinventing itself – for more than 30 years now, this stolid old colossus, formed by coal and steel, has been ridding itself of its corset of hard work and industrially determined lifestyles.

Business and science

The Ruhr Area is reinventing itself – since the 1960s, the “motor and energy supplier for the German economic miracle” has been transforming itself into a modern science and technology location. With 5 universities, 10 universities of applied science, an art academy, four Fraunhofer, four Leibniz and three Max Planck institutes as well as more than 150 other non-university educational, research and development institutions, the Ruhr metropolitan area today is one of the most important science landscapes in Europe. And there is a special feature, too: wall-to-wall linkages between the many collaborations and centres of competence in the various research areas.

In the 2007/08 winter semester there were 152,000 students, of whom 19,000 came from abroad.
As a result of these structural changes the Ruhr Area still suffers from high unemployment and slow development in the service sector. At the same time, ten of the 100 companies with the highest turnover in Germany have their headquarters in the Ruhr Area. This is where important European streams of commerce are organised; this is where future European energy policy is shaped. New, modern branches, especially information technology, medicine and logistics as well as energy and water management determine the economic direction the coal-mining district is taking today.

Industrial heritage

The Ruhr Area is reinventing itself – and has discovered a completely new form of culture: industrial heritage.

This regional consciousness is and was focused on industrial locations: yesterday’s workplace – the pithead towers and blast furnaces, the slag heaps and gasometers – has become today’s monument or landmark.

The buildings and factories abandoned by industry are now often used for art and culture, theatre and exhibitions and, indeed, for sport and leisure. During the summer “Ruhrrriennale”, the Ruhr metropolitan area’s festival of arts, these venues host a top-class theatre programme with a most unusual atmosphere. Once a year, the “Extraschicht” (extra shift), the long night of industrial culture, opens the doors for one night on industrial facilities from the past and present which become the unforgettable backdrop for productions by international artists.
In 2010, the Ruhr Area will become the “European Capital of Culture” and will feature many of the projects and programmes that are set to bring about sustainable change in the entire region under the motto “Change through Culture – Culture through Change”.

Europe’s cultural capital will present the results of a radical process of transformation that has been brought about over a number of years. Hundreds of cultural institutions and artists of all kinds in the Ruhr metropolitan area are the foundations on which this change has taken place, making it one of the most fertile cultural landscapes in Europe. Focusing on selected projects, RUHR.2010 will showcase the progress made so far and will be the preliminary highlight of this work in progress. The Ruhr Area is harnessing the energy of the European Capital of Culture to continue its transformation.
The “Industrial Heritage Trail” links the individual locations in the Ruhr Area. A 400 km route wends its various ways through the region and features themed trails and cycle trails.

The anchor points of the Industrial Heritage Trail include:

World Heritage Site: the Zollverein Pit in Essen
The “most beautiful colliery in the world” now houses the “red dot design museum”, the “Phänomenia/Erfahrungsfeld” (experiencing science centre) and the Ruhr Museum, to name but three. In the neighbouring coke oven there is a works swimming pool and an ice rink.

The Zollern Colliery in Dortmund
This magnificent art nouveau building is now a museum where visitors can get an impression of colliery life in the 19th century. And it is also possible to visit the housing estates built for the miners in the vicinity.

"Jahrhunderthalle Bochum" (Century Hall)
This impressive hall was built as an exhibition space by the iron and steel works “Bochumer Verein” for the 1902 Düsseldorf Trade Fair. Today, it is a highly atmospheric performance centre for theatre, concerts and opera.

North Duisburg Landscape Park
The huge site of the former ironworks has now been turned into a public recreation area with climbing walls in the old ore bins and a gasometer for scuba diving. Every evening, a permanent light installation bathes the smelting works in a fascinating show of light and colour.

The Oberhausen Gasometer
Built in 1929, the gasometer now houses the largest and arguably most unusual exhibition space in Europe. The inside is more than 100 metres high, and fascinating exhibitions and installations are shown here. There is a magnificent view over the Ruhr Area from the viewing platform on the roof.

Henrichshütte Steelworks in Hattingen
The oldest blast furnace in the entire coal-mining area was operational for 150 years. Today, it is an industrial museum introducing visitors to the work and significance of the steelworks for the region, including a “path of iron” demonstration. There are also cultural programmes, special exhibitions and much, much more.

Bochum is situated in the very heart of the Ruhr Area in central Nordrhein-Westfalen, not far from the state capital of Düsseldorf. With a population of some 380,000 it is the sixth largest town in the Federal State, the second largest in Westfalen and amongst the 20 largest cities in the Federal Republic of Germany. It is a member of the Regional Association of Westfalen-Lippe (LWL) and “Regionalverband Ruhr” (association of regional authorities). In 1905, the number of inhabitants passed the 100,000 mark, turning Bochum into a city.

Bochum was once the town with the most collieries in the Ruhr Area. From the mid 19th century, coal and steel brought the town a hundred years of prosperity. One of the main protagonists was the leading Bochum coal and steel company, the “Bochumer Verein”, a cast steel factory famous for producing cast steel bells.

In the post-war years, there was a tangible sense of purpose in the devastated town; the Ruhr Area was the driving force in Germany’s economic miracle. Iron and steel worked to capacity, and Bochum built a new “Schauspielhaus” (theatre) on the ruins of the old one and a new main station.

The effects of the crisis in the coal industry turned the 1960s into a decade of change for Bochum. The decision to set up an Opel production plant was taken, the largest German shopping centre “Ruhrpark” was built outside the urban area, Bochum Museum was opened and the first and largest university in the Ruhr Area was founded: Ruhr-Universität Bochum.

The last of the collieries was shut down in 1973. Today, Bochum is a town poised between industry (including Opel, BP and GEA), academia (Ruhr-Universität Bochum, two universities of applied sciences and others) and culture (“Schauspielhaus”, “Jahrhunderthalle”, “Starlight Express”). The result is a charming mixture of friendliness, the student scene and cutting-edge culture – unique in its variety and vitality.
Research in Bochum: Surprisingly varied

There are eight institutions of higher education in Bochum, Ruhr-Universität and various universities of applied sciences focusing on technical, social and arts subjects:

With more than 32,000 students, Ruhr-Universität is one of the largest universities in Germany. It is also the oldest university in the Ruhr Area. RUB’s portfolio includes a broad spectrum of subjects as well as international standard science and research. (See chapter 2.2)

The “Hochschule Bochum” is Bochum’s largest university of applied sciences with more than 4,000 students and 330 staff. It offers degree courses in engineering and business.

The “Technische Fachhochschule Georg Agricola” is a private technical university of applied sciences that goes back to the “Bochumer Bergschule” (school of mining), founded in 1816. It offers degree courses in engineering and technological subjects, including those related to mining.

The “Evangelische Fachhochschule Rheinland-Westfalen-Lippe” is the largest institution of higher education in Germany maintained by the Protestant Church. Some 2,000 students study for degrees in the social and educational fields.

Furthermore, Bochum also has a drama school that is affiliated to the “Folkwang-Hochschule” (university of the arts) in Essen, the EBZ private business school, a study centre belonging to the FOM University of Applied Sciences (economics and management) and the social security department of the Federal University of Applied Administrative Sciences.

In 2010, Bochum will become the site of the new “Gesundheitscampus NRW” (health campus). Nine towns applied to host the site of this university of applied sciences dedicated to training health professionals which will have about 1,000 students and a large research location.
Culture and leisure in Bochum: Surprisingly much to do

More than 40 stages, including the famous “Bochumer Schaupielhaus” and the Bochum Symphony Orchestra as well as a host of small venues, offer plenty of choice for an evening’s entertainment. The unique German Mining Museum, the Zeiss Planetarium and numerous smaller museums and galleries run interesting exhibitions and events. In the “Bermuda3Eck” (Bermuda Triangle), there are more than 60 pubs, bars and restaurants to choose from on the longest entertainment strip in the Ruhr Area.

“Schauspielhaus Bochum”
Bochum’s theatre is one of the most respected stages in Germany. The much-acclaimed productions of famous directors like Hans Schalla, Saladin Schmitt, Peter Zadek, Claus Peymann, Leander Haußmann, Matthias Hartmann and Elmar Goerden with outstanding companies formed the basis for the excellent reputation that the theatre successfully continues to uphold.

“Ruhrtriennale”
The international “Ruhrtriennale” festival captures the imagination again and again with its productions interweaving opera and drama with other art forms like visual arts, pop and concert music. The main venue is the “Jahrhunderthalle Bochum”.

Insider Info:
You can get tickets for events and general information about Bochum at the Bochum Ticketshop Tourisminfo in Huestr. 9 (100 m from the main station) or online at www.bochum-tourismus.de

This is where you can also find out about group and individual guided tours.
Bochum Symphony Orchestra
For more than 90 years, this internationally renowned classical orchestra has been entertaining audiences with an extremely varied programme.

Starlight Express
With an audience of more than 12 million, Starlight Express is Germany’s most successful and fast-paced musical. Since 1988, the performers, on roller skates, have been hurtling across the stage right down the middle of the auditorium at speeds up to 60 kilometres per hour.

... and much, much more: other venues
Comödie Bochum, FIDENA (puppet theatre), Variété et cetera, prinz regent theater, Kultur Magazin Lothringen, Theater Zauberkasten, das Theater der Gezeiten, Kulturhaus Thealozzi – lots of stages in Bochum regularly host performances and events.

The “Entertainment Mile”
The “Bermuda3Eck” is the most popular pub and entertainment district in the city centre. More than 60 restaurants, bars, clubs, pubs and cafés catering for about 10,000 people make up the most concentrated amusement area in the region. During “Bochum Total”, a music festival that takes place every summer, the Bermuda Triangle is transformed into a gigantic open-air stage.

“Bahnhof Langendreer”
The former railway station “Langendreer Bahnhof” is a particular kind of cultural centre. The wide-ranging programme includes cabaret and comedy, music and concerts, children’s theatre, cinema, readings, events and lectures on political topics.
Art and museums in Bochum: Surprisingly much to see

Bochum showcases its industrial past in various industrial heritage museums. However, there is no shortage of art either. The “Kunstmuseum Bochum” (Museum of Art) focuses on contemporary art in both permanent and temporary exhibitions. And since amateur astronomer Heinz Kaminsky set up the “Volkssternwarte” (observatory) in 1946, Bochum has become a centre of astronomy, too. Today, there is a planetarium and an observatory in Sundern.

“Deutsches Bergbau-Museum”
The German Mining Museum in Bochum is the most important specialist museum of its kind in the world. You can visit a replica mine covering 2.5 kilometres under the museum, huge halls containing mining equipment, and you can see a wealth of exhibits and models. You can also take a lift up the double strut-frame headgear that has become the symbol of Bochum to enjoy a panoramic view of the area from the viewing platforms 50 and 62 metres above the museum.

“Kunstmuseum Bochum”
At the Municipal Park in the very heart of the town you will find Bochum Museum of Art. The exhibitions change regularly and feature both photography and young, experimental art. The museum sees itself as a place of communication and as an “art workshop” with a varied supporting programme of events.

“Eisenbahnmuseum”
The Railway Museum Bochum-Dahlhausen houses a varied collection of historical steam and diesel locomotives and carriages as well as signal boxes and signalling equipment. The collection includes a number of rarities, such as the dining carriage from the famous Orient Express. During the summer an historical train runs through the Ruhr Valley to Hagen via Hattingen.
“Zeche Hannover”
The massive brick Malkow tower is the hallmark of the industrial museum at Hannover Colliery. The “Kids’ Colliery” is the highlight for children. Here they can play at being coal miners in the gallery and pit and operate a hoist.

“Zeiss Planetarium”
At the Zeiss Planetarium in Bochum you can gaze at 9,000 stars twinkling under a 20-metre dome. Anything up to 300 people can settle down in comfortable reclining chairs to watch the formation of the universe or observe the starry sky above. The ethereal music of the spheres and special events like an eclipse of the moon are particularly popular, not least with children.

Ruhr-Universität Art Collections
(see chapter 3.10, Facilities and Institutions at RUB, Art Collections)

“Situation Kunst” and “galerie m” in the grounds of Weitmar Castle
The art galleries in the beautiful gardens of Weitmar Castle allow you to take a closer look at contemporary art. The collection also includes Asian and African exhibits. “Situation Kunst” is dedicated to the memory of the late RUB art professor Max Imdahl.

“Haus Kemnade”
Kemnade House was built in the 17th and 18th centuries. Today, the castle houses a local heritage collection including the archive of the writer Karl Arnold Kortum, as well as collections of musical instruments and East Asian art. It is also the venue for the exhibitions of the Bochum Art Society. In summer, “Kemnade International Festival” takes place in the courtyard of the moated castle. There is also a rural heritage exhibition in the Farmhouse Museum to the east of the castle.

Bochum: Surprisingly green

Former industrial districts transformed into recreation areas, Bochum’s Municipal Park, numerous green spaces and lakes, meadows and woods along the banks of the Ruhr: Bochum is simply unbelievably green. You can jog til your heart’s content, rollerblade or simply relax in the sunshine in the recreational areas spread all over the town.

“Die Ruhr”
The river Ruhr, which has given its name to the entire region, meanders along the city limits in south Bochum. You can make your way on foot from Kemnade Lake via Hattingen and Dahlhausen to Essen, or wander in the opposite direction through the green Ruhr Valley at Witten. Alternatively, you can cycle along the “Leinpfad”, the old towpath beside the river, or cover the distance by canoe.

Kemnade Lake
The most popular recreation area in easy reach of Bochum is the big Ruhr reservoir in the south of the town. Unfortunately, you are not allowed to bathe, but you may surf, row or chug across on the steamer “MS Kemnade”. Many of the people who live in Bochum come here to walk and jog or to rollerblade and cycle round the lake. There are public barbeque areas, plenty of grass for lounging around, crazy golf, beach volleyball and tennis for the whole family.

You can get a “Segelschein” (sailing licence) at the boathed. The Heveney waterpark is situated directly on Kemnade Lake and boasts indoor and outdoor pools, waterslides and extensive sauna facilities.

“Stadtpark”
Bochum’s municipal park was one of the first public parks to be opened in Germany in 1876. Beautifully designed gardens, attractive paths and a view of Bochum bathed in green from the Bismarck Tower guarantee its popularity today. There is a big children’s playground and a well-kept crazy golf course. Bochum’s Zoo is also located in the municipal park and has a pets’ corner for children.

“Westpark”
The site of the Krupp steelworks, formerly a “forbidden city”, is now a recreation area just a short walk west from the centre of town. In between the industrial sites around the “Jahrhunderthalle” a modern park has been created that amalgamates the industrial character of the place with leisure and sport facilities. At night, light installations illuminate the edge of the paths, the birches and poplar trees. It is in the Westpark that the “Erzbahntrasse” begins, the old iron ore railway line that has now become a foot and cycle path leading all the way to the Rhine-Herne Canal.
“Weitmarer Holz”
Incredible but true: there is a forest in the middle of Bochum! Weitmar Wood is a favourite destination for a day out with beautiful natural forest tracks, a game reserve, children’s play areas and crazy golf. From the highest point you have a view over the Ruhr Valley stretching for miles.

The Botanical Gardens
Immediately behind the science faculty at RUB you will find the university Botanical Gardens, covering an area of 13 hectares. The top attractions are the Chinese Garden and the Tropical Greenhouse. You can find out more in chapter 3.10, University Institutions and Facilities, Botanical Gardens.
